TOO TRUSTING.

A Young Lady in Gotham Badly Treated—Drugged and Robbed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—In a crowd of prisoners arraigned before Justice Grady in the Jefferson Market police court this morning was a young woman who attracted unusual attention. Her efforts to conceal her face from view and her appearance of respectability, were in striking contrast to the looks and actions of the hardened outcasts about her. She was charged with intoxication. Policeman Harrigan picked her up yesterday afternoon on Sixth avenue, and had to summon a patrol wagon to carry her to the station house. She told a remarkable story in court.

The young woman said she was not drunk, but she had been drugged and robbed, and, to complete the outrage, thrown into the street to be arrested for intoxication. On the court docket she was entered as Mary Dooley of 134 West Sixty-third street, but that was an unfortunate mistake, she said, Mary Dooley being the name of a friend. She was stupid from the effects of a drugged drink, and when taken to the station house she said the police booked her on the name of a letter addressed to Miss Dooley, which they found in her pocket.
Her real name was Mary Mortimer. She declined to give her address.

According to the story told in court, she had been out shopping. At the corner of Sixteenth street and Sixth avenue she had slipped and fallen, tearing a rent in her skirt down its entire length. A man politely offered his assistance, and said he would take her to a place where she could have her skirt mended. He took her to a saloon. They entered the back room, where another woman was seated. Miss Mortimer's companion insisted that she should have something to drink, and to oblige him she drank a glass of lemonade. After drinking it, she said, she became dizzy, and when she attempted to walk she reeled. She accused her companion of having drugged her, whereupon Sylvester, one of the proprietors, seized her by the arm and hustled her out of the door.
On the sidewalk she staggered and fell, and the policeman came along and arrested her for drunkenness.

When she regained consciousness at the station house she discovered that she had been robbed of her pocket book containing $35. Detective Hayes thereupon arrested Sylvester, but as she could not swear that he took her money he was discharged this morning. Justice Grady said he would entertain a complaint of assault against Sylvester, whereupon Miss Mortimer exclaimed: "Heavens, no! I've had disgrace enough." Justice Grady thereupon discharged her.

At the door of the police court she was met by an old lady dressed in deep mourning. The old lady's features softened as the girl rushed into her arms and cried: "Mother, mother! You are not going to scold me? I have not done anything wrong. It might have happened to any good girl. The disgrace of it alone will be hard enough to bear."

The mother kissed her and threw her shawl over the long tear in the dress, and together they walked away.

Fatal Amateur Contest.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 29.—Charles Volks, the well known prize fighter, and Bob Brown, two young men who have fought in professional rings before, met last night. It will probably prove fatal to Brown. One hundred and fifty Cincinnati sports boarded the ferry boat with the contestants and went down the river.
When ten miles down, a ring was formed on the lower deck and the fight began.
For thirteen rounds it was a bruising contest, honors being even. In the fourteenth round Volks gave Brown a full length upper cut which met him full on the jaw. He staggered and tried to keep his feet, but in vain. Time was called for the fifteenth round and Brown, more dead than alive, tried to stagger in.
Volks hit him again and he fell in a heap. Brown's father who was a spectator, then rushed in and stopped the fight. The contest was given to Volks.
Brown was unconscious, and on the trip back to the city every effort was made to restore him, but in vain. Arriving in Cincinnati after midnight Brown was carried away on a stretcher, apparently in a dying condition.

A Proposed Alliance.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 29.—The white Republican party recently organized in the state is making overtures to the straight out Democracy which was defeated by the Alliance movement in 1890. A secret circular sent to prominent Democrats by a committee of one hundred says: "We make this personal appeal to you to join us in our efforts to build up such a party in this state as shall command recognition in state politics and prove of source in giving us a good government. It is probably known to you that the old line Republican party of this state does not represent the intelligent and respectable adherents of the true doctrine of Republicanism," etc.

Two Men and an Insane Woman.

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 29.—A few days ago five peddlers came to Ottawa from Chicago. Today two of them were found in their room in the hotel dead from gas escaping from defective fixtures. One woman in the party lost her mind when she saw the dead bodies, one of whom was her son and the other her brother.
